Roe is a former soldier who served in the SAS for seven years. He was deployed to Afghanistan in 2012 and was partnered with 281. Together, they embarked on a series of dangerous missions, including raids and ambushes.

On one fateful day, Roe and 281 were on patrol when they came under attack. Roe was shot in the leg and fell to the ground. 281 immediately came to his aid, barking and growling at the enemy. He then lay down on top of Roe, using his body to shield him from further harm.

Thanks to 281's bravery, Roe was able to survive his injuries. He was evacuated to a hospital in Germany, where he underwent surgery. 281 stayed by his side throughout his recovery.

Roe and 281 were awarded the Dickin Medal, the highest honor that can be bestowed on an animal for bravery in war. They have also received numerous other awards and accolades, and their story has been told in books, magazines, and newspapers around the world.

Dog 281 Save Five is a truly inspiring story of courage, loyalty, and the unbreakable bond between man and dog.
