Stanley Ketchel was one of the greatest boxers of all time, but his story has been largely forgotten. This book tells the full story of Ketchel's life and career, from his humble beginnings in Michigan to his tragic death at the age of 24.

Ketchel was born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, in 1886. He started boxing at a young age, and quickly developed a reputation as a tough and skilled fighter. In 1908, he won the world middleweight championship, and he held the title for two years before losing it to Billy Papke in 1910.

Ketchel was a fearless fighter, and he was always willing to take on all comers. He fought some of the greatest boxers of his era, including Jack Johnson, Joe Gans, and Sam Langford. Ketchel was also a gifted self-promoter, and he knew how to generate excitement for his fights.

Ketchel's career was cut short by tragedy in 1910. He was shot and killed by his estranged wife, Myrtle. Ketchel was just 24 years old at the time of his death.

Stanley Ketchel was a great boxer and a tragic figure. His story is one of triumph and heartbreak. This book tells the full story of Ketchel's life and career, and it is a must-read for any fan of boxing history.
