Unraveling the Past, One Object at a Time

Through a series of enthralling chapters, Bartlett delves into the enigmatic world of forgotten objects and their forgotten histories. Each chapter focuses on a distinct artifact, from a seemingly innocuous doorstop to an ancient Egyptian statuette, unraveling the surprising and often humorous tales of how these objects came to reside within our homes.

One chapter delves into the mystery of a peculiar wooden box, its surface adorned with intricate carvings. Bartlett's meticulous research reveals that this enigmatic object once belonged to a renowned explorer who brought it back from a remote African expedition. Its intricate carvings depict scenes of tribal rituals and exotic landscapes, offering a glimpse into a forgotten world.

In another chapter, Bartlett investigates the true origin of a seemingly ordinary vase that has occupied a place on a mantelpiece for decades. Through archival research and interviews with family members, he uncovers a tale of love, loss, and redemption that is inextricably intertwined with the vase's journey to its current abode.
